The Gant Releases Top Five Advantages to Book A Condominium Resort for Business Meetings or Events

The resort's combined offerings give planners greater value, flexibility and service in Aspen

ASPEN, Colo. — Feb. 9, 2015 — For the past 40 years, The Gant, A Destination Hotel, has made significant strides to elevate the condominium guest experience and authentically immerse guests in the Aspen experience. Recognized as Aspen's first hybrid hotel-condominium resort for its upscale suite of amenities, services and spacious accommodations, The Gant set the pace once more in summer 2014 by adding on-property food and beverage service and becoming Aspen's only full-service condominium resort. While The Gant has long been a preferred choice among leisure travelers, many meeting planners consider it one of Aspen's best kept secrets.

Nestled in a tranquil enclave at the base of Aspen Mountain within walking distance from downtown, The Gant, A Destination Hotel, has compiled a list of the five top reasons why the resort is a facility of choice among current meeting planner clients.

1. Multi-bedroom layouts deliver privacy and savings. The Gant offers a variety of two and three private bedroom condominiums that allow attendees to share one condominium, but still have their own bedroom and bathroom for privacy. It is estimated that companies can save 35-40% when attendees share a condominium versus individual bookings at a hotel.
2. Spacious accommodations out-size hotel rooms. An average hotel room is approximately 300-square-feet. An average condominium unit at The Gant is approximately 900-square-feet. The additional space gives guests a sizable common area ideal for pre- or post-meeting briefings, breakout brainstorming sessions, or simply a comfortably furnished area to relax.
3. Conference center designed with service in mind. Hotels are designed to juggle multiple meetings simultaneously. At The Gant, planners won't be one of 10, 20 or even 30 meetings running that day; instead, they will be one of two at most or best case scenario - the only meeting in house. As such, planners will enjoy the attentive service, flexible floor plans and buy-out options The Gant's conference center affords companies.
4. Hybrid design affords comfort and luxury. At The Gant, guests will receive much more than just a room. Guests will check into a spacious condominium that many consider a home away from home. Guests will enjoy the comforts of a spacious living area, a fully-equipped kitchen, wood-burning fireplace, private balcony and have access to a medley of resort amenities and services including pools, hot tubs, fitness center, tennis courts, café, shuttle service, pre-arrival meal and grocery deliveries, concierge services and more.

5. All-inclusive Complete Meeting Packages (CMP). The Gant's experienced conference services team have helped companies with groups of varying sizes host successful meetings in Aspen. Their full-service packages have been meticulously designed to address every imaginable detail, but can also be easily modified to meet a planner's specific needs.

Molly Campbell Conference Center

Elegantly interweaving function and style into an eco-friendly design, the 5,500-square-foot Molly Campbell Conference Center re-emerged June 2014 after a $5 million renovation effort.

Effortlessly blending into its natural surroundings, the center boasts an earth-tone color palette, natural stone and sustainable building materials. The center's suite of distinctive amenities and services, including a recently added panoramic 1,500-square-foot rooftop terrace, specialty café, expanded flexible indoor and outdoor floor plans, and contemporary furnishings and accessories provide the ideal setting to be both inspired and productive.

At The Gant, A Destination Hotel, meeting planners will find an events team that provides not only quality meeting facilities, but also quality meeting support and services. The resort's conference service managers provide the highest levels of personal service to ensure the success of every Aspen meeting or event. Services include:

- Professional meeting and technical support staff
- Aspen-inspired team-building experiences
- Full-service catering capabilities
- High-speed wireless Internet access throughout conference center and meeting facilities
- Complete audiovisual equipment
